Law & Political Economy in Europe

SUMMER ACADEMY

Call for Applications
Erasmus University Rotterdam
2-4 June 2025

The Law and Political Economy in Europe Project invites applications for its third Summer Academy, taking place at Erasmus University Rotterdam on 2-4 June 2025. Over three immersive days, participants will engage with an international Faculty of leading LPE researchers in writing workshops, masterclasses, roundtable discussions, and social activities. We particularly encourage applications from researchers at the doctoral and early career stages, including from alumni of previous Summer Academies.

The Academy prioritizes areas of focus that address the pressing crises shaping society today. These include the green transition, international law and political economy amidst growing militarization, monetary and financial governance, digital governance, and housing. This year, we place a special emphasis on food governance – a critical domain at the intersection of climate change, security, and social inequality – and we strongly encourage applications from individuals working in this field. More broadly, we welcome applications from researchers working on any theme connected to LPE research within and beyond Europe, including contributions from researchers working on the international and transnational arenas.

Applicants should submit a 500-word abstract outlining the longer paper (maximum 8,000 words) that they would propose to submit for the writing workshops, and a 2-page CV. Writing workshops will be convened by members of the Faculty, and participants are expected to read and comment on the work of their peers.

Accommodation and catering expenses will be covered, and travel budgets will be offered subject to budgetary constraints. Participation in the Academy is funded thanks to the generous support of Partners for a New Economy.

Applications should be submitted by 23 February 2025 to lpeineurope@gmail.com. Successful applicants will be notified within 2 weeks.
