Law & Political Economy in Europe

SUMMER ACADEMY

Call for Applications

University of Glasgow
15-17 June 2026

The Law and Political Economy in Europe Project invites applications for its fourth Summer Academy, taking place at the University of Glasgow on 15-17 June 2026. Over three immersive days, participants will engage with an international Faculty of leading LPE researchers, political economists, and civil society actors in writing workshops, masterclasses, roundtable discussions, and social activities. We particularly encourage applications from researchers at the doctoral and early career stages, including from alumni of previous Summer Academies.

The Academy prioritizes research addressing the pressing crises shaping contemporary societies, including climate change, widening socio-economic inequalities, growing militarization and geopolitical antagonism, the financialization of social life, food insecurity, and gender- and race-based hierarchies. We welcome applications from researchers working on any theme connected to Law and Political Economy within and beyond Europe, including work that examines the legal and institutional dimensions of these dynamics in international and transnational contexts.

Applicants should submit a 500-word abstract outlining the longer paper (maximum 8,000 words) that they would propose to submit for the writing workshops, and a 2-page CV. Writing workshops will be convened by members of the Faculty, and participants are expected to read and comment on the work of their peers.

Accommodation and catering expenses will be covered, and travel budgets will be offered subject to budgetary constraints. Participation in the Academy is funded thanks to the generous support of Erasmus Trustfonds and Partners for a New Economy.

Applications should be submitted by 20 February 2026 to lpeineurope@gmail.com. Successful applicants will be notified within 2 weeks.
